Dear Reader

Welcome to the First Premier Issue of 'GeM', the General Management e-Magazine of NLDalmia, a nostalgic trip down all the events conducted by the General Management Committee, GMC, in the past academic years.

This magazine and the events here in are a labour of love, time and dedication, and a keen reflection of the culture celebrated in NLDalmia. While editing and curating the articles I repeatedly found myself reminiscing the endless days spent organizing, managing or being excited for these events.

This magazine comes at a time in our lives where just the thought of organizing events with such a huge populace seems daunting, and that makes it even more special. It gives us an opportunity to explore our fond memories and gives us something to look forward to in the days to come.

A huge thanks to Dr. A. Kaul, HOD General Management, who is the brains behind the e-magazine, Thanks to Kaul Sir for the name GeM, design of the GMC logo, providing the contents, and for the unique creative final editing and formatting. Without these this magazine would not have come together in your hands or device. Thanks also to everyone who was instrumental in bringing together these events seamlessly including the faculty coordinators, guest judges and speakers. I owe a great deal to all the writers, poets, and photographers who contributed to making sure that this magazine becomes real and not just an idea in our heads. Last of all, I thank you, dear reader, for taking the time to go through this e-magazine, and I genuinely hope it will elicit the same emotions in you as it did in me when I read it for the first time

Mock Parliament – Ruling Party

Ruling Party Passes the Hawkers Bill (2019) by a Voice Vote – Opposition Walks Out

I want to thank Masuma Ma'am and Kaul Sir first for hosting such an exciting platform and then providing me an opportunity to be a part of it. Mock Parliament is one of the most exciting events I have ever participated in as it was filled with training workshops, where Deep Sir (mentor of whole workshops and parliament) enlighten us about how a real parliament works and specially how it is different from the one shown on TV with lots of fights and highlights and an actual parliament setup. The event was hosted in front of Faculties and students of N. L. Dalmia Institute of Management Studies and Research and managed to gather healthy amount of appreciation by whole management team of our college making it a successful one. As a student it was an amazing experience to become part of such an event and this opportunity was floated to 28 students like me. As easy the event looks on stage, contrary to that are the stories and learning we get from it. We enjoyed the day we started with workshops and was happy post event with the learnings and extra ordinary experience we gained at the end.

Practice of mock parliament started with the Workshops post our regular lecture schedule, where we were supposed to understand the decorum of an actual parliament and the most difficult part was delivering everything in HINDI, and trust me this made the whole setup of parliament not only exciting but also humorous for the audience. In the first workshop we were divided into two teams by ruling party and opposition party so as to execute a scenario of an actual parliament. And I ended up being in opposition party but then came the twist by Deep Sir and Masuma Ma'am as they introduced the draft in the picture where one participant from each team can be drafted to another team by request. And this became my turning point as I was drafted into the ruling party by the request of the team members of the ruling party.

Second workshop started with the distribution of roles to each member of parliament, same as actual parliament like Prime Minister, Home Minister, HRD minister, etc. I was tagged as Minister of Public welfare and in this role Shubendra Singh and I, we had to present a Bill to the Secretary of the Parliament for "Legalization of Hawkers".

Third and Forth workshops which was our last two workshops before the mock parliament were very exciting for both the parties as we not only needed to prepare for the roles assigned to us but also for the debate in Hindi. It was the responsibility of opposition party to bring out few pain-points and drawbacks of current ruling party and we needed to answer the allegations presented by the opposition party and this debate was the most exciting and entertaining part of the whole parliament. As a responsibility assigned to me, I need to present the new bill named as “Legalization of Hawkers” and it was very much natural that opposing party was going to oppose that and hence we were instructed by the mentor that we need to be very cautious and picky while choosing rights of hawker and imposing regulations because there were lots of eyes on us from opposition party to reject this bill.

The most exciting task triggered when we started our work on preparing the bill as its not only just a draft copy but we need to do the research on what is the current situation of hawkers and is there any bill proposed earlier, if proposed what happened to that bill, i.e., if rejected why or if accepted then what is the need for the current bill. We were given two days to do the research on the topic and collate data, as much possible, and we almost completed the task on time like how we complete our MBA presentations and assignments always on time. The challenge came when we presented the bill in the Mock Lok Sabha (ruling party + opposition) and the unexpected happened rather than opposing our bill, opposing party was quiet and the bill got rejected by the mentor stating lack of facts supporting the claim of ruling party for presenting the bill. We were not only shocked but there was a huge task in front of us to draft and prepare a whole new bill with proper claims and also needed to send it to all the members of parliament (ruling & opposing party) at least 12 hrs before the parliament session to give time to prepare opposing comments and review the bill. We in order to rise to the situation started our study post the last workshop that ended a day before mock parliament around 9 PM in the night, satisfying the engineering soul in side us. With the quote something is better than nothing and started searching for facts and figures to strengthen our claim and ended up changing all the claims we made as we were not only running out of time but also realised that the bill made earlier not only lacked claims but also the regulations. Well after study of the few earlier attempts by the government, we compiled the regulations for the hawkers’ bill, and we completed our bill at around 3 AM in the morning and sent it to the entire mock parliament group for preparation, and satisfied the MBA soul inside us for time management.

Here comes the D-day, the day of the event where we all were excited as well as nervous (about presenting everything in Hindi) for the event. The event was chaired by Ex. Mayor Mira-Bhayander Smt. Geeta Jain and she also played the role of Speaker in the mock parliament. The parliament started with the oath and then proceeded with discussions. Opposition came up with number of points and allegation against the ruling party and asked us to respond which turned into debate of putting their point forward where we understand the biggest lesson about parliament that along with facts and figures in place you also need good debating and commanding skills to prove your point. The discussion aka debate went on till one and half hour and we came to the last topic of the parliament session where we needed to present the bill in front of the parliament that was the first time I realised that speaking everything in Hindi is actually a very difficult task and the debate on the bill started, opposition came up with many drawback of the bill but thanks to the study we did the night before parliament, we came up with all the facts and regulations top tacked each and every allegations of opposing party, ended up in walkout of opposition from the parliament. The bill was approved by the parliament with majority of votes and passed by the speaker of the parliament. All of us with our first experience of parliament ended the Mock Parliament with our national anthem.

Mock parliament was not only an opportunity for all of us to have a feel of parliament but also filled with learnings and once a life time experience for us. Personally, I have learned many new regulations presented and attempts of government for preserving the rights of hawkers. We went through many regulations to support our claims and studied about parliament as well as the notes to debate with the opposing parties. As participants, we all are thankful of Masuma Ma’am, Kaul Sir, and Deep Sir for organising such and amazing event which ended up with lots of learning and experience.

Mock Parliament – An Opposition’s Experience

Opposition Exceeds Debate Expectations

Our country – India, has the honour of being the world’s largest democracy. And almost every second year, in some place or the other in India, we celebrate the Festival of Democracy – ELECTIONS. Though, at a national level, we celebrate it once every 5 years. But here, at N. L. Dalmia Institute of Management Studies and Research (NLDalmia), we get to celebrate it every single year. We call it “Mock Parliament”. This is an event which the GMC (General Management Committee) of NLDalima organizes.

This year, it was organized on 7th March, 2019 at NLDalmia’s campus auditorium. The preparations for the same began almost a week prior to the actual event. There were four extensive workshop sessions conducted for making the participants aware and ready to present themselves as true parliamentarians. I will try giving a brief overview from the point of view of an opposition party’s leader. So, once that everyone who was interested in being a part of Mock Parliament was enrolled, our very own Prof. Masuma Ma’am, arranged sessions wherein she invited people who had prior experience in handling such Mock Parliaments before. She invited Mr. Deep Kakade, who is a journalist by profession, to oversee the entire event, right from preparation to execution. Apart from, Deep Sir and Prof. Masuma Ma’am, our HOD of General Management, Kaul Sir, also waited for long hours and were a part of the audience witnessing these sessions. The sessions initially involved the Calling Attention Motion, Question Hour Discussion, Bill Presentation, and ultimately, how all these things will be executed on the day of the actual event. Once, the bifurcation between Ruling Party & Opposition Party was done, every side had a task in hand – To rule (By presenting bills, by answering questions, etc.) and to oppose (By debating on the bills presented, by asking questions, etc.).

I was grateful enough to be elected as LOP (Leader-of-Opposition) by consensus. Now, we had our areas to discuss and work upon. Areas like, who will call attention motion (bringing some important point/issue to ponder upon), who will oppose bills with what data, who will ask questions in Question Hour and towards which minister those questions would be directed at, etc.) We worked as a team, though we were called as ‘Opposition Party’, we had zero opposition with regard to our way of functioning as a team. I also had an opportunity to ask questions related to Railways, to the Rail Minister. Though everyone participating, were our friends, we took it very seriously when it came to the question of acting like true law-makers. So, when the bill named “Legalization of Hawkers” was tabled, we opposed it with all our might, backed by data including facts and figures, because we had done our homework. The event was a great learning and bonding experience, as it taught us that being in the shoes of an MP, is not an easy task, it comes with greater responsibilities. Our speaker for the event, Mrs. Geeta Jain, ex-Mayor of Mira-Bhayander, 2015-17, did a great job of managing the whole house of the Mock Parliament, as the Speaker of the Mock Lok Sabha, and I am quite grateful to everyone who helped me get this opportunity of a lifetime, which shall be forever etched in my memory. Thank you.

Leadership Forum Talk

Topic: 'Learning Leadership Skills through Goals' Execution'

Date: 9 March 2019

Time: 3:00 PM

Venue: NLDalmia Auditorium

Guest Speaker

Mr. Ivan Miranda

VP, J. P. Morgan Chase, CIB Technology

General Management Committee at N L Dalmia Institute of Management Studies and Research, Mumbai conducted the Leadership Forum Talk event on 09th March 2019 was attended by over 150+ students of the institute on the topic of 'Learning Leadership Skills through Goals' Execution'. This event was presented by our esteemed guest Mr. Ivan Miranda (Vice President, J P Morgan Chase, Investment Banking). He is an alumnus of the part-time program of the Jamnalal Bajaj Institute of Management Studies, Mumbai.

He gave his insights and wisdom on leadership, and goals. To illustrate this, he elaborated his journey from being a Regular Commerce Student from a small town near Mumbai to getting a Master's Degree from one of the most prestigious management institute in the country.

He talked about his book called "Bamboo Theory" and Application of "Bamboo Theory" in real life. He explained various management concepts like brainstorming, Kanban, Six Sigma, and Lean which are helpful to achieve goals and how he implemented them.

Being an Analyst, he emphasized on being curious, never stop learning, never follow the trail, and have a strong desire to share whatever we learn to reach closer to our goals.

Leaders help themselves and others to do the right things. They set direction, build an inspiring vision, and create something new. Leadership is about mapping out where you need to go to win as a team or an organization; and it is dynamic, exciting, and inspiring. This gets us to see the new dimensions of the world and ways of managing things.

He was humorous throughout the session. The session ended with interactive Q&A.

Moot Court Experience

Representing the Plaintiff
National Company Law Tribunal
Court Proceeding: M/s. 'Modant Enterprises'

Plaintiffs Representing One Owner – Winning Team

The first time when Masuma Ma'am told us about the Moot Court competition we all had the same confused faces as to why would we be doing this as part of an MBA course. But the learning and the experience in itself of arguing in front of a panel is something I will always cherish.

I vividly remember reading the case given to us the first time and immediately reaching to a conclusion that the defendant would win outright and there wouldn't really be any argument or discussion. But as we dug deeper into the case and started to read more on aspects of business law particularly related to the Memorandum of Understanding and Articles of Association, did we realize that there was a lot more to this case than that would appear on the surface. An important part of any case is the citations one has, which are similar cases where the judge or panel had given the verdict in favour of the point you are trying to put forth. I remember sitting down with my team which included Apoorva Bellapu, Avnish Yadav, Ankita Jaiswal, Pooja Dabhade and Komal Modani, and trying to go through past cases and not being able to comprehend anything as this was the first time any of us were doing it ever. However, we did figure quickly that similar to any academic research, we didn't need to go through a lot of cases trying to find the right ones, but just needed to find the most recent appropriate one which would then in its citations contain similar cases.

Mubeen Uttanwala
MMS Finance, Sem. II
Div. B, 2018-20

The day of the competition arrived and we were finally all set to present our arguments in front of the panel. The entire setup of there being a mic in the center of the room where each lawyer would come up and present their arguments in front of the panel created a very realistic atmosphere of a courtroom. I remember feeling shaky in front of the bench which consisted some of the top lawyers in the city. I really enjoyed how we had to structure everything like it was an actual court room, and the small things like referring to the panel as "Your Lordships" and the opposition counsel as "Our friends" which is the language used in a court room, again gave us a very realistic feel. The points put forward by my team were more logical and were backed by ample citations. I even remember being able to use a citation I had read previously to counter argue the point put forward by the opposition. And finally, we were declared the winning team which made all of us feel ecstatic that all our efforts paid off.

I realize that if you are reading this you are probably still thinking how does it help somebody pursuing MBA. What we need to realize is that sooner or later there will come a time when we would have to go to the court of law maybe to represent the company you work for or maybe for something personal and this small experience that we had would better equip us to deal with such sort of circumstance if it ever arises

Moot Court – An Incredible Ride!

Defendants Representing Director

Moot Courts are the closest experience a student can get of how a courtroom functions in real life. In this, a proper court scenario is created where the students act like the councillors (Advocates) presenting each side (Plaintiff and Defendant) on the basis of evidences and substantive questions of law, argue with each other to prove their point in front of the judge who in the end will give his judgment with regards to the same, and will also declare the winner who has performed the best.

We were lucky enough to have this event at N. L. Dalmia Institute of Management Studies and Research, which the GMC (General Management Committee) had conducted. It was organized on 17th March, 2019 at N. L. Dalmia's campus auditorium. It was a 2-day event where, in the preliminary round on March 16th, we were distributed among groups of 5 each and the competition was held within intra-divisions and inter-divisions. We were given the 'Facts of the case' which were some handpicked case studies and we had to play our respective roles for and against it in front of the two judges each, in two separate courtrooms set up in classrooms. The external judges invited were Advocate Ahetesham Thaver, Advocate Vikram Kamath and Advocate Harsh Buch. Prof. Masuma Cyclewala also acted as one of the judges in the preliminary round.

These cases were given to us by Prof. Masuma Ma'am. She made sure we were shown videos of the moot courts conducted and also explained us the entire process of how actually the courts work and made us aware of the code of conduct which was required in order to present a case. One such code of conduct was that you should never show your back to the judges. All these learnings by Ma'am allowed us to get our academic learnings closer to the practical world. It also gave us an insight as to actually how well researched the advocates should be in real life too. We also had the constant support of our HOD of General Management, Kaul Sir. He made sure everything was going as planned and everyone was enjoying as well as learning during the entire process.

Vaishnavi S. Shetty
PGDM Finance, Sem. II
Div. D, 2018-20

Later, after presenting our cases to the judges, they were told to grade us on various aspects like our presentation skills, understanding of cases, confidence, etc. Out of all the groups, two were shortlisted for the final round the next day. It was such a feel-good moment when our group was shortlisted, all the hard work had finally paid off and we were told to present our cases in front of the judge the next day in the auditorium where there would be an audience. The next day the final round of the event was conducted under the guidance of Advocate Ahetesham Thaver. He gave us accurate and detailed feedback of where we could improve and also taught us many lessons which will always guide us in our future endeavours.

I am thankful to the Institute, all the professors and advocates that were involved in the process for giving us such a once-in-a lifetime opportunity.

It is a tribute to my mentor, Mahatma Gandhi, whose example is an inspiration to so many of us. -- Dalai Lama at the Nobel Acceptance Lecture (1989).

Gandhi is more relevant than ever. In the 21st century, the abundance of terrorist movements mean that the world is both tired of the cycle of violence and will refuse to listen to anyone with arms. That means any movement that takes up violence will be considered bad in the world's eyes.

There are three key elements of Gandhian philosophy:

1. Satyagraha - Always, fight for truth, no matter what.
2. Ahimsa - Be nonviolent in your fight. Let your mouth and deeds do the fighting.
3. Sarvodaya - Upliftment of everyone - all classes, all castes, all religions, all regions, all sexes.

These are all very relevant in the 21st century. But peaceful protests don't work in most places, right? The problem is that there are very few leaders of moral repute and patience who could utilize the tools of the Satyagraha. This is where we need better leadership who can use Gandhian tools. Gandhi was also a super intelligent politician who knew how to move people. Most modern Gandhians don't have those abilities and are resigned to small movements. But there were a few in the recent past.

Nelson Mandela did all these three and helped build bridges between blacks and whites in South Africa. He didn't let his country go in the way of Zimbabwe. At the same time, he made sure apartheid was gone. Martin Luther King Jr did the same in the US and became an inspiration for blacks and whites alike. Unlike the leaders of the black power movement, he is also respected outside the black community and outside the US. He used the same principles of the Mahatma. Recently, East Timor won its independence mostly through peaceful means. Wangari Maathai of Kenya used some of Gandhian ideals.

Some of the other principles of Mahatma is also very relevant now:

1. Lower carbon signature & Sustainable development - Gandhian movement emphasized on simplicity and anti-materialism. Escalating costs of energy and other resources will make some of this mandatory in 21st century.
2. Distributed organizations - Gandhi emphasized on a highly decentralized organization that coordinate in a manner of trust and truth. This could be applied both in politics and economics. India's Panchayat raj is one such example of this principle.
3. Do it yourself - Gandhi made his clothes by himself. His goal was to impress upon people that no job is lowly. We can get on to this DIY culture and start building some of the stuff we use.

India's National Innovation Foundation speaks of "Gandhian Engineering" - of producing sustainable things that are simple to use and have a meaning & purpose. 'Gandhian engineering' is vital for 21st century.'

Will Gandhian ideas solve all of world's problems? No. Nothing will. Each problem needs its own customized solution. But Gandhian principles can be utilized as a core block in a different solution.

Panel Debate on Gandhi - Against Proposition

Sumita Das of the Opposition Team was Selected Best Debater by the Judges

Raj Vora
PGDM Marketing, Sem. II
Div. C, 2018-20

Good afternoon everyone.

We would like to begin by saying that we respect Gandhiji and lot and his efforts for our country's freedom are amazing and cannot be compared.

But we feel that his principles are not relevant in today's world.

The world is changing every minute, isn't it time to change, to fine tune few of principles too after so many years?

Changing with time is the need of the situation and denying the same would be foolish.

Had Gandhiji been living in the present era, his teachings would have been different from what is inscribed into the books written years back.

This is not 1947 my friends where you will offer the other side of your face and ask him to hit after getting hit on the first. It is 2019. You could lose your life if you don't fight.

One of the Gandhiji's main principle nonviolence is taken as weakness today.

Satyagraha or fight for good in a peaceful way is also no longer relevant as they are easily ignored unless a problem is created to draw the attention of the ministry. Anna Hazare's India against corruption movement did not produce any result. The lokpal bill could not be passed. Hazare followed the path shown by Gandhiji but his peaceful protests and fasts could not get the government to act upon it showing the irrelevance of Gandhism in today's world.

It can be argued that if Gandhi were alive today, he would have led India on newer and stronger principles. However, Gandhi's principles may be apt for a personal and spiritual growth of an individual, but they certainly need modification according to the present nuclear age. In fact, the very first step towards non-violence would be to disband the Indian army and to denuclearize India, which is undoubtedly impossible and somewhat foolish to even think of.

The collective consciousness that Gandhi created suited the era that he lived in. Today, more than Gandhi, India is in dire need of a different kind of leader. More than one man leading the nation through his ideals, present-day India is in need of leaders whose visions can match with those of the common man and especially the underprivileged ones — leaders that can be benevolent and quick decision makers, who have the ability to transform and evolve at a quicker pace in this fast-moving world.

If you still follow the path on Nonviolence, Satya, Dandi march today, you'll be stepped upon by other people.

The world has become just too fast and ignorant to believe in these things.

Everyone wants to get on the top by hook or crook.

Other principle in which Gandhiji believed in is Satya which means speaking the truth and only truth no matters what.

In today' world nearly no one speaks only truth. Truth may seem to be the right path but it may end up as your worst decision in long run.

For example, consider this simple example: 'Your wife asks you if she is looking fat in new dress?' I dare you to speak the truth.

I know this is really not related to speaking real truth but a lot of past incidents have shown us what happens to people who dare to speak the truth in today's materialistic world where probably everything is a lie.

There is freedom of speech until you speak the truth which hurts someone.

Don't be a criminal but don't become a victim either.

Just look in ourselves what we think about Gandhi Jayanti, we don't think much about his principles and values but think more about that we will be able to enjoy a long weekend.

'Lageraho Munna Bhai' is what happens in Bollywood not in real life.

Tolerance is taken as inability.

So, I would just like to conclude by saying that Gandhiji and his principles were relevant and most useful back in that time when people were different but in today's world, they are not that relevant and I am sure if Gandhiji were alive today even he would have different principles.

Thank you.

Topic: 'Ascending the Shikhar of a 5 Trillion Economy'

In June, 2019, the PM said, ".... goal to make India a $5 trillion economy is challenging, but achievable, with the concerted efforts of the states." Three weeks later, the Finance Minister (FM) in her Budget speech on July 5 said, "From $1.85 trillion in 2014, the economy has reached $2.7 trillion mark. We can very well reach $5 trillion in the next few years." The Budget supported this growth through infrastructure and digital economy as jump-starters, with the fiscal deficit targeted at 3.3% of GDP. The Economic Survey 2018-19 states, "To achieve the objective of becoming a $5 trillion economy by 2024-25, India needs to sustain a real GDP growth rate of 8%." The Indian nominal GDP has doubled back to back in the two decades since 1996.

India's domestic credit to private sector or private debt to GDP ratio was 49.9 percent in 2018 according to the World Bank, low compared to advanced countries. The country's external debt to nominal GDP ratio was 20.5 percent in 2018, according to the RBI. The FM, during the Budget, announced that the government was looking into raising funds by issuing overseas sovereign bonds. The idea is to free the borrowing space for the private sector. Ex-Deputy Governor of the RBI had shown that crowding of domestic funds for the private sector is greater when foreign inflows are weak. Investments help with many things like jobs, demand, capacity, and wealth creation. According to an ex-RBI governor, "A small issuance will likely not be problematic. The concern is that once the door is opened, the government will be tempted to issue more" This may have risk of indulgence.

The Premier of China has set the target for economic growth between 6-6.5 percent, for fiscal 2019-20. This is in anticipation of continued trade tension between the US and China. The growth is propped by investments in infrastructure like high-speed rail, colossal bridges, and ports. How far can credit fuel growth? Can infrastructure development alone deliver the targeted GDP, and how soon?

A fellow at the space and ocean studies program of a think tank in Mumbai, monitoring ISRO's Chandrayaan-2 lunar launch has said that scientific innovation, the invention of new technology and the development of a highly skilled labor force could help India become a $5 trillion economy by 2024.

At an AGM, the Chairman of a large vehicle manufacturer said, "There is no demand and no private investment, so where will growth come from? It doesn't fall from heavens. The auto industry is going through a very difficult period. Cars, commercial vehicles and two-wheelers are going through a rough patch."

According to the World Bank, the per capita GDP of India was $2015.60 in 2018, while China's is almost 5 times and the US's over 31 times. Addressing a leadership summit in July at a college in Mumbai, a top industrialist of a family run business said, "It's not all a rosy picture now. One must not lose sight of the massive impoverishment plaguing our nation which can seriously damage the pace of growth going forward and prevent us from realising our potential."

The Cabinet Secretary in the ministry called for a meeting, Monday after the Budget, to discuss the vision, policy intervention, investment, and departmental responsibilities in the direction of accomplishing the 5 trillion target.

The research of the student applicants to, Shikhar, the National Business School competition at NLDalmia, must be insightful and imaginative and cover issues mentioned above and include the following concerns as well:

- What are the real growth drivers for a 5 trillion Indian economy?
- How is this going to shape up and will India be the next breakthrough country?
- Is this tryst wishful but pragmatic in the timeframe prescribed?
- What is the supportive data and evidence, or is it just arithmetic?
- Is there a Tao for this growth?
- What are the windows of opportunities and what are the challenges for inclusive socio-economic growth?

Shikhar 2019 – National Paper Presentation Competition

The General Management Committee (GMC) of N. L. Dalmia Institute of Management Studies and Research organized and executed 'Shikhar 2019', a national level paper presentation competition at the NLDalmia Auditorium on 26th September, 2019. The event was attended by faculty from all the functions and a packed auditorium of enthusiastic junior and senior students. The Shikhar 2019 Exhibition was conducted in the Seminar Room, post lunch and before the event.

The topic was 'Ascending the Shikhar of a 5 Trillion Economy'. Dr. Pushpa Trivedi who was a keynote speaker for this event talked about various aspects on this topic including opportunities, challenges, path ahead to achieve this goal. She presented her views in simplistic manner. She concluded by saying that the Prime Minister has an optimistic goal to achieve, but it will benefit if it involves all the sectors in the economy and its factors of production.

The event later proceeded with the Paper Presentation Competition which was judged by prominent economists in industry such as Mr. Ronak Pol (Duff and Phelps), Ms. Achala Jethmalani (Mirae Asset Capital Markets India), Mr. G. Chokkalingam (Founder & MD Equinomics Research Advisory). Participants were from respected institutes like Narsee Monjee Institute of Management Studies (NMIMS), Navi Mumbai; National Institute of Industrial Engineering (NITIE), Mumbai; Indian Institute of Management (IIM) Visakhapatnam; and N. L. Dalmia Institute of Management Studies and Research (NLDalmia), Mumbai Metropolitan Region.

The participants were judged on their Knowledge on the Economy, Content of the Paper Presentation, Presentation Skills, and ability to answer questions posed by the judges. The judges later gave remarks on the topic and presented their views before announcing the winners.

Shruti Goel & Divya Nalluri from NITIE were declared as winners. Palak Lapasia and Aditya Pradhan from NLDalmia were First Runner-up. Radhika Phatke and Vibhavari Tumulri from NMIMS were Second Runner-up. The prizes were given by Mr. Shivkumarji Dalmia, Chairman, N. L. Dalmia Educational Society.

The event was guided by Prof. Dr. Amarjeev Kaul, HDD General Management, and GM Faculty Co-ordinators Dr. Sanimole. K. R., Dr. Vijeta Chaudhary, Prof. Masuma Cyclewala, and Prof. Rupesh Siyodia.

First National Education Day Celebration

Nothing is essential for helping an individual to realize the nature which is inherent in him apart from education. “Education is not preparation for life, education is life itself”. Taking this view forward “National Education Day” was celebrated with great verve and enthusiasm on 11 November 2019 in “N.L. Dalmia Institute of Management and Research” to commemorate the 131st Birth anniversary of Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, who was a great freedom fighter, an eminent educationist and the first Union Minister of Education.

As a part of Celebration, various activities were organized by MMS students with support of our HOD of General Management, Dr. Amarjeev Kaul Sir. The preparation for the event was started a week prior, and was successfully inaugurated by dignitaries, CEO Seema Saini Ma’am and Dean Dr. Dinesh Hegde Sir who shared their wonderful thoughts about education.

This was followed by video clips about National Education Day and then our student gave some insights about views and contribution of Abul Kalam Azad towards education, backed up by a video on the same.

Later students presented some wonderful work of Abul Kalam Azad with their own unique touch of self-composed speeches and poetries. Some thoughts about the contribution of Mahatma Gandhi were also recited in the form of speeches and poems. The icing on the cake was a video of narration by Sir Michael Caine, on a poem by Rudyard Kipling.

The entire event did reinforce that education is the most powerful weapon that can change the world.

Mahatma Gandhi

Original Poem

Himashree Bhardwaj
MMS Finance, Sem. I
Div. A, 2019-21

Simplest in appearance, mind infinite like the universe,
Had a frail body, but his words had the power to change the world;
An epitome of patience, an embodiment of sublunary knowledge,
Broke the shackles of subjugation, freed our motherland from bondage;
Fought courageously, using non-violence as his weapon,
Disapproved even a drop of blood-shed, was a statuette of compassion;
Love, peace and equality were his cherished insignia,
Spinning the Charkha, he turned the future of India;
A halo of enlightenment in colossal darkness,
Illuminating billions of souls, sprawling and sowing seeds of awareness;
He is our beloved 'Bapu', The Father of the Nation,
We, his children owe him a hearty salutation

Gyaan ki Maaya

Original Poem

Shiksha anmol
Gyan ek amrit ghol
Praapt kare woh
Jo sagar manthe

Viphalta vish laye
Par haar na mano
Amrit haath lage
Jab Vishpan kiye jaye

Gyaan ek aisi roshni hai
Jo ghanghor andhera cheere
Ek baar me naa milta parth
Ye badhta dheere dheere

Chandra saa ye chamke
Isme suryaprakash ki chaya
Antarman me abhiman jo jage
Arthhin sikhsha ki maya

Gyaan se hi jag me hot hai keval
Dhan praptri ka maarg
Agyani hote hai woh log
Jo gate hai yah raag

Gyaan ka arth samjho aye manav
Dhan ki lalsa chod do
Vishwa ka kalyan soocho tum
Aur khud ko jag ko saump do

Woh gita ka adhyayan karo
Jo kehat hai ye baat
Saarthi bin rath aadhura
Iss baat ko samjho paarth

Guru hi mata Guru hi pita
Guru hi gyan det aapne swaar
Marg jo dikhlate is jag ko
Guru hi param Ishwar

Maulana Abul Kalam Azad

Original Poem

Riddhi Agarwal

Div. C, 2019-20

He served as a minister of education,
A Proud winner of Bharat Ratna by our nation.
A man of wisdom, poetry and letters,
Made so many people to be his followers.
His works criticized the British Rule,
His determination to fight for independence was Remarkable.
An excellent Speaker in different languages,
Azad penned his beautiful words on The India Wins Freedom's pages.
Today, on the day of his Birth, students across the country are sharing his quotes all over social media,
His firm belief in Hindu Muslim unity is a symbol of communal harmony in modern India.
His heart stopped of a stroke when he was sixty-nine,
An inspiration left behind
In every student's heart and mind.

Theme: 'Contemporary Issues in Management and Technology Interface'

Date: Tue., 7 Jan. 2020, 10:00 AM to 1:10 PM

Venue: NLDalmia Auditorium

Opportunities presented by rapidly changing technology require an ongoing evaluation of current management practices. This requires managers to examine how they think, their strategies, tactics and practices. The challenge is exasperated by the complexity of the technology and economic environment as expressed by VUCA and experienced by the managers. The larger corporation may have an advantage of resources while the smaller organization may have the ability not only to perceive the change, but also the ability to respond to it in real-time by virtue of being thin, lean and agile. The pace of technology change is such that without having to wait for accrued benefits post the payback period, a new technology implementation is to be forecasted and accomplished.

Not only is the technology changing swiftly, it is also shifting dramatically. The possibilities for management to assimilate this change in order to make decisions and the organization to absorb it lies at the cusp of the management and technology interface that everyone needs to deal with. Technology is also driving globalization of finance, work flows, business competitiveness, supply chain, discovery, and innovation to unpredictable outcomes and possibilities. The value proposition to the customer is continuously being challenged through digital and IoT technologies. In some businesses, entry barriers are beginning to look fragile.

In today's scenario, as economies are being severely stressed, apprehensions of domestic and global investors with subdued response tend to continue in the face of ambivalent policy decisions. The positive wave of productivity enhancement and the negative fallout of job shrinkages are again at the interface of management and technology that require simultaneous and synchronized attention, especially in emerging economies. It also sets up a dilemma of where and how to get the knowledge workers in such a dynamic. Analysing the workforce environment today reveals that the current managers, Gen X, are tagged to their office environment; the new hires that they are bringing on-board in their organizations, Gen Y, are able to effectively combine the workplace with the home space, while the recruits of the future, the Gen Z, will have the competence and the skills to work from anywhere, and from any location around the globe.

As the field of AI, machine learning, Industry 4.0 automation, cloud services, and big data analytics grows, its impact is felt by increasing number of organizations around the globe. Due to unique new perspectives arising from this, managers and corporate leaders are hard pressed to address these issues and implications.

Writeup on Keynote Speaker - Dr. Robert H. Ducoffe

Provost and VC Academic and Student Affairs
University of Wisconsin, Parkside, USA

Arjun Nair
PGDM Marketing, Sem. I
Div. C, 2019-21

Mentioned below are the excerpts of the keynote speaker, Dr. Robert Ducoffe of the event – International Conclave the theme of which was “Contemporary issues in Management and Technology Interface”.

Dr. Ducoffe began his speech by addressing the fact that, just until a few years back, colleges and could anticipate classes of high school graduates each bigger than the previous year but those days were behind us.

According to Dr. Ducoffe 25%-50% of colleges will either close or end up merging with one another. He believes that the heart of the problem is that “many colleges and universities are increasingly unable to bring in enough revenue to cover their costs.”

He says up to 500 private colleges and universities offering 4-year degrees will close by 2040. The cost to attend a university increased nearly eight times faster than wages did in the U.S. between 1989 and 2016, says Dr. Ducoffe.

“The Business models of many traditional schools make them structurally incapable of responding to changes in the market that they serve. Students are inevitably beginning to question the return on their higher education investments because the costs of a college degree continue to rise and the gulf continues to widen between degree holders and the jobs available today.”

Dr. Ducoffe feels that the current system of higher education fits a former industrial economy needing about 20 percent college graduates that are educated young people for their first 18 – 25 years. “Today, the global economy is rapidly evolving knowledge and longer lifespans are leading people to have more transitions and longer careers. Higher education needs to evolve to serve learners from before they arrive to college through after they retire.”

Workers with at least some college education captured 11.5 million of the 11.6 million jobs that was created during the recovery of The Great Recession. While the jobs are back, they are not the same jobs as those lost during the recession. The Great Recession had decimated low-skill blue collar and clerical jobs, whereas the recovery added primarily high-skill managerial and professional jobs.

60% of Americans will have high-quality degrees, certificates and other credentials by 2025.

Dr. Robert Ducoffe concluded his address by apprising the students of N. L. Dalmia Institute of Management Studies and Research that, “There is a significant challenge to increase the performance and reduce the cost of higher education in the U.S.”

Leadership Forum Talk

Event Feedback

Event: Sat., 9 March 2019, 3:00 PM

The feedback was obtained by the CRs of the Finance and Marketing divisions, both MMS and PGDM, in class, without the presence of any faculty, and was provided in written form, and is detailed below:

Div. A – MMS Finance

It was really inspiring to have Mr. Ivan Miranda conducting a corporate guidance session. His candid conversational style and his belief to not pursue competition has motivated several of us to put our competitive baggage behind and focus on our personal growth. Ivan sir has not only come a long way in his corporate career but has also come along that path in the shortest time. He brought along a sense of optimism and the fact that hard work is all that matters for personal growth. We would really like more sessions from Ivan Sir not just on leadership, but also on financial markets and career prospects.

Div. B – MMS Finance

- Natural
- Honest
- Straight forward
- Could connect
- Very candid with the students
- Friendly and could connect
- Humorous
- Kind of person you wanna work for
- Relatable
- He had a comic timing
- Was not too less and not too much

Div. C – PGDM/MMS Marketing

1. It was good & interactive
2. The session gave a new perspective on success and goals.
3. It was an inspiring session and could relate to our lives.
4. It was a session which taught me how to balance passion and work.

5. It was a fresh breeze of valuable insights on coping with various aspects of life and overcoming challenges. The best part that differentiated his session from others and got us engaged was that it was tremendously relatable and of an informal nature.

6. Mr. Ivan Miranda provided interesting insights from his personal experiences which clarified life after doing MBA.

7. It was a great and very insightful session.

Div. D – PGDM Finance

The event, with Mr. Ivan Miranda was insightful into the corporate world where your work and your contribution to an organization matters the most.

Mr. Ivan was easy to connect with on a personal level. He spoke in an easy to understand language & tone.

He also addressed questions in terms of fresher's joining a work environment and stressed on being open minded to new adventures and experiences.

It was very good. The speeches were good. The poems were really nice too. One video was too big but the rest was amazing

Fantastic hosting. Good arrangement. Creative poems and speeches

Event was very good. It was organized well. Speeches and Poem were creative and inspirational. It got over within time limit.

Life history facts and achievements video of Abul Kalam Azad was inspirational. Good that u guys included videos and poems to make the event interesting.

Initiative was thoughtful and informative. Looking forward to attend events like this.

It was a good event and highly informative as well. Long videos could have been avoided.

Congratulations to first year batch for organizing a successful event. The event was inspiring and motivating. The management was great, especially the hosting, speeches, poem gave us insight about our great leaders who added to our education system in a revolutionary way, overall, the event was superb, only thing that can be considered for improvement is that the event could have been promoted more, rest everything was on point.

Informative and enlightening event. Got to know about the real heroes of our nation and the importance of education in our lives. Looking forward for more such events in the future.

Informative and enlightening event.

Congratulations to first year batch for organizing a successful event. The event was inspiring and motivating, the management was great, especially the hosting, speeches, poem gave us insight about our great leaders.

Div. B - MMS Finance - Feedback from various students

1. It was amazing experience to witness you and all the MMS guys contribute to a social awareness cause...
2. It was really heartening to see my classmates to organize and present the National Education Day event in such a wonderful way. The poems and speeches were really inspiring!!! Kudos to MMS!!
3. It was good, liked the speeches and poems of my classmates.
4. The program was professionally managed throughout the event; it was a beautiful mixture of our tradition and literature.
5. Proud to be one of the audiences of National Education Day, as it was organized by MMS. The program was to the point.
6. For the first time, I was indulged in the poems and speeches presented by the students. It was creative efforts.
7. Kudos to the organizers of National Education Day, the program made us to think about Maulana Abul Kalam Sir and his contributions to the education. We really appreciate the work Abul sir has done.
8. It was a collective fruitful effort by all the people as the event went smoothly. Looking forward for more such events in the future.
9. Just one word, Maulana Abul Kalam Azad was a true revolutionary. He was the pioneer of the Indian education and many more key contributions. We are happy to have him as the first Education minister of Free India.
10. The function was enlightening as we had videos, poems & Speeches by our own students. They have done a wonderful job. Hats off!

Event Feedback

Event: Thur., 26 Sept. 2019, 12:30 PM – 5:30 PM

Mr. Ronak Pol (Judge)

Thank you for coordinating with such diligence. Look forward to the event. Thank you for inviting me. I look forward to future collaborations with the college.

Ms. Achala Jethmalani (Judge)

Dear Sir, thank you for making me a part of your event. It was a privilege to be amongst you all and young, bright students. I hope I could add some value to the event. Congratulating the college and all the teachers who made it a success. Looking forward to be part in future as well. Thank you once again, Sir.

It was an excellent event and a very well managed one too.

Mr. G. Chokkalingam (Judge)

Dear Sir, at the outset I must congratulate you for the wonderful event. The event was well organized – maintaining confidentiality and facilities were wonderful. Once again, I thank you for the wonderful opportunity you gave me.

Warm regards, Chokka.

A Detailed Feedback – by Ms. Achala Jethmalani (Judge)

Topic:

The topic chosen was one of the most pressing topics of the day and as a matter of fact not many had the idea to dig deeper into it and to understand as to how would India get to the US$ 5 trillion economy by 2025! It was commendable that this topic was chosen and each team that participated did a fantastic job of presenting it. Dalmia college students (marketing team) gave the best visuals and presentation on the topic.

One feedback:

Students should also focus on concepts and not just data on topic and its presentation.

Organized/Execution:

The one-contact point student for each of the judges was a good idea which the respective students delivered upon very well. The students are hardworking and committed. Their dedication and respect shown to us all at the event is praise worthy. From start of the event to lunch to the scorecard and getting us the cab speaks volumes about each of these students who took care of the pettiest little things at the event. Well organized event.

Feedback:

Brilliance! They must keep up the excellent work in future too!

Faculty:

What students executed would not have been possible without their mentors – which is you all, the teachers. The guidance given to them was reflective in their ideas, thought process, the Exhibition/workshop where they creatively demonstrated economic issues and policies! The support given by the teachers was simply outstanding. The kind of respect they showed us all is also a reflection of values imparted by your reputed institute and each of the teachers' efforts in shaping these brilliant minds.

Overall:

From the start to the finish, the students of the institute, participants, students of the organizing committee (& volunteers) all demonstrated enthusiasm in their approach and eagerness to excel in their domains. The warm welcome and appreciation by the faculty members was simply overwhelming. It was an honor of being a part of the vivacious and brain twisting event at Shikhar 2019 at your college.

Heartiest congratulations on the success of the event. All the efforts put in and the midnight lamp burnt by all parties involved was simply worth it all given the success of event.

Thank you once again for associating with me and believing in my abilities to be a part of the mega event.

I am looking forward to being associated with your reputed institute in future as well with the objective of parting little knowledge to the young minds of the nation.

Best Regards,

Achala P. Jethmalani

International Conclave

Event Feedback

Event: Tue., 7 Jan. 2020, 10:00 PM – 1:10 PM

Dr. Andrew Delios (Panel Guest Speaker)

In terms of the Conclave, I think it worked out very well. I enjoyed the opportunity to participate in the event and it was great to get to know your institution to a better degree.

For feedback, overall, the event went smoothly. I think for each participant, it was rewarding to have such a large group as an engaged audience. The hotel was a good choice, and travel was convenient. Congratulations to you and the other organizers for making it a rewarding experience for the panellists.

Regards,
Andrew

Mr. Chandra Gour (Panel Guest Speaker and Moderator)

It was wonderful experience visiting the college and be part of an esteemed panel. Although, I couldn't spend much time due to shortage of time and I needed to rush back to airport. I wanted to visit library as that has always been my favorite place in college. Lifting standard of library by subscribing to industry magazines and publications (not just journals) helps in increasing awareness of students. These days e-subscriptions (HBR etc.) also helps a lot in reducing cost for college simultaneously increasing availability and quality of knowledge to wider student base.

I am open to join N L Dalmia college for any future learning initiatives.

My ambition is also to give back to the student community as much as possible, so that they can be better prepared for a successful career in today' competitive world.

The event was very well organized, and hospitality was wonderful. Students escorted me from hotel and to airport as well, that was very kind.

I think, there was not much time reserved for interacting with students. There were no questions from female students, although I encouraged them to ask questions after panel discussion. Probably the first-year students are too shy to speak up in front of everyone. I think, everyone will benefit if time reserved for Q&A session can be increased. Also, it might be helpful to keep some prizes for audience such as for best question asked etc.

Overall, I think the conclave was very successful in achieving its objectives.

Best Regards
